THREE FEET AWAY FROM A LIVE OPERATION

THAT'S WHEN I REALISED
WHAT REAL TEAMWORK IS.
WHAT OTHER GENERAL MANAGEMENT SCHEME
GIVES YOU THE CHANCE TO LEARN FROM SURGEONS?

The NHS Graduate Management Training Scheme is nothing less than a life defining experience. Whether you join our HR, Finance, Health Informatics or General Management streams, you'll receive everything you need to make a positive impact on the lives of 53 million people across England.

Applications open in October 2015 for people to join us in September 2016.

The competition will be fierce and it's really important you get to know us before you apply. Luckily that's the easy bit.

Like us on Facebook or follow us on Twitter, and you can explore the scheme up close and personal. You'll be able to join in the conversation with current graduates and alumni, the recruiting team and others considering a career in the NHS.

You'll find out what a uniquely demanding scheme it is and whether you have what it takes. But you'll also learn about what we offer: a career awash with outstanding development opportunities and exposure to leadership strategies delivered by NHS experts, international healthcare providers and private sector organisations.
